Local Control

Humanscale's owners and leadership reside in the places in which we conduct business due to the nature of our work and our business activities. Many of our goals are most effectively accomplished with strong relations and close connections both with our clients and with our operations. Although we do have a global supply chain that we source from, for our own operations, our leadership stays closely connected being present on a daily basis. This is easiest accomplished by having our leadership reside in the communities where we operate.
